STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

The Factories Act, 1948 provides for the health, safety, welfare and other aspects of workers in factories. The Act is enforced by the State Governments through their Factory Inspectorates. The Act also empowers the State Governments to frame rules, so that the local conditions prevailing in the State are appropriately reflected in the enforcement. The Act was last amended in 1976 for strengthening the provisions relating to safety and health at work, extending the scope of the definition of "workers", providing for statutory health surveys, and requiring appointment of safety officers in large factories.

2. After the last amendment to the Act, there has been substantial modernisation and innovation in the industrial field. Several chemical industries have come up which deal with hazardous and toxic substances. This has brought in its train problems of industrial safety and occupational health hazards. It is, therefore, considered necessary that the Act may be appropriately amended, among other things, to provide specifically for the safeguards to be adopted against use and handling of hazardous substances by the occupiers of factories and the laying down of emergency standards and measures. The amendments would also include procedures for siting of hazardous industries to ensure that hazardous and polluting industries are not set up in areas where they can cause adverse effects on the general public. Provision has also been made for the workers' participation in safety management.

3. Opportunity has been availed of to make the punishments provided in the Act stricter and certain other amendments found necessary in the implementation of the Act.

4. The Bill seeks to achieve the above objects.

NEW DELHI;

PURNO A. SANGMA.

The 24th November, 1986.

FINANCIAL MEMORANDUM

New section 41D inserted under clause 20 of the Bill enables the Central Government to appoint Enquiry Committees in the event of the occurrence of an extraordinary situation involving a factory engaged in a hazardous process and new section 41E inserted by that clause empowers the Central Government to direct the Director-General, Factory Advice Service and Labour Institute or any other specialised institution to lay down emergency standards where no standards of safety have been specified in respect of a hazardous process or in cases of hazardous processes where the standards so specified are inadequate.

These provisions when implemented would involve certain expenditure out of the Consolidated Fund of India. However, it is not possible to give any specific figures of expenditure, as that would depend on the specific nature of enquiry to be instituted, the dimension of the problem and the amount of work to be done either by the Director-General, Factory Advice Service and Labour Institute or by the specialised institution.

The Bill does not involve any other expenditure of recurring or non-recurring nature out of the Consolidated Fund of India.

MEMORANDUM REGARDING DELEGATED LEGISLATION

Clause 4 of the Bill seeks to insert two new sections in the Factories Act, 1948 (hereafter referred to as the said Act). The new section 7A lays down the general duties of the occupier of a factory for ensuring health, safety and welfare at work of all workers in the factory. Sub-section (3) of section 7A empowers the State Government to make rules specifying the cases where the occupier shall prepare the statement or revision of the statement under that sub-section and the manner in which such statement or revision shall be brought to the notice of the workers.

2. Clause 6 of the Bill seeks to amend section 13 of the said Act and empowers the State Government to make rules for the maintenance of records in relation to measuring instruments in the factory.

3. Clause 19 of the Bill seeks to substitute section 38 of the said Act. Sub-section (3) of section 38 empowers the State Government to make rules in respect of any factory or class or description of factories, requiring measures to be adopted for the prevention and control of fire in a factory.

4. Clause 20 of the Bill seeks to insert a new Chapter IV A after Chapter IV of the said Act. The new Chapter makes provision relating to hazardous processes. Under that Chapter the State Government is empowered to make rules for specifying the form in which an application for the establishment of a factory involving hazardous process is to be made [section 41A(2)], the manner in which the occupier of a factory involving hazardous processes should disclose the information regarding the danger, including health hazards and measures to overcome the same [section 41B(1)], the intervals within which the occupier has to inform the Chief Inspector regarding the changes he has made about the detailed policy [section 41B(2)], the manner in which the occupier is to publicise the measures for the handling of usage, transport, storage and disposal of hazardous substances [section 41B(7)], the conditions subject to which the records in a factory shall be made accessible to the workers by the occupier [section 41C(1)], the manner in which the persons with special qualifications and experience appointed to supervise the handling of hazardous substances within a factory, to be protected [section 41C(2)] and the manner in which every worker is to be subjected to medical examination while continuing in the job and after he has ceased to be assigned that job [section 41C(3)].

5. Clause 26 of the Bill seeks to insert a new section 87A which empowers Inspectors of the factory to prohibit employment of persons on account of imminent danger till the danger is removed. It empowers the State Government to make rules specifying the manner in which the occupier is to provide alternative employment.

6. All the above matters are matters of detail or procedure and, as such, the delegation of legislative power involved is of a normal character.

SUBHASH C. KASHYAP,
Secretary-General.
